

One pull request. One local environment.

Real GitHub delivery, local Kubernetes, simulated AWS services, and evidence-based diagnostics.

From pull request to running preview.

Build provenance and immutable image records connect GitHub automation to two independent local controllers.

The laptop watcher must be running for local lifecycle work. Staging is excluded from automatic preview cleanup.

Inside an environment.

Every preview has its own application data and export resources; monitoring and diagnostics are shared cluster services.

